Gerber is a Nestlé global infant nutrition brand. The Gerber water range in Mexico is bottled and distributed by Water Partners Mexico under agreement with Nestlé Nutrition.
These waters have pure and bright sensations, and a lot of balance. They are soft, with a low mineral and salt content. Their freshness and fluidity is appreciated due to the feeling of purity and the regenerative effect they provide. They are ideal for children due to their soft and gentle taste.

These waters have a slightly higher mineral content than the “light & pure” family, and have more structure. The taste of these waters is enhanced and revealed by a touch of savouriness. The main characteristic of these waters is the complementary role played by their sweetness and their savour. These waters are appreciated for their inherently consistent mouth-feel. They are ideal to accompany meals.
These waters have a high-mineral content and salinity. They are full-bodied and have a velvety, sometimes almost an oily texture. They are appreciated for their “gustatory” qualities and due to the sense of “nourishment” associated with their taste profile. They have a strong personality and are mostly consumed on their own.
These sparkling waters have very soft carbonation. The bubbles are so thin and delicate that they seem almost ethereal. The bubbles delicately tickle the tongue before disappearing quickly. These waters show a lot of finesse, are supple and their texture is quite soft. Due to the soft and elegant nature of the bubbles, these waters are able to wash the palate, thus they are ideal to accompany meals.

These waters have lively and long-lived bubbles, which feel creamy on the palate. They have a lot of presence of the palate and a slightly salty taste. This salinity is well-balanced with acidity to give an overall refreshing, thirst-quenching feel. These waters can be consumed perfectly during meals or on their own.
These waters have a lot of personality; their bubbles are very wild and peppery. These waters have a lot of movement and can wake up every part of the mouth. There is a tangy freshness associated with their strong carbonation. These waters are typically consumed on their own or may be used as a “mixer” to create other drinks.
